What materials are included?

The Compass course book for your test will be mailed to you in advance of your class. You will also receive a packet of three practice tests. Two digital tests will be available through our online testing center.

What are the basic technical requirements?

We use Zoom for class instruction. While we always recommend a desktop or laptop that is plugged in so you don't lose power halfway through class, many devices can connect to Zoom.

To check if your device will work, visit this link or google "Zoom on my computer".

Do you register us for the official exam?

No, Compass cannot register for the official exam on a students behalf. We encourage students to secure a space for an official exam date prior to the start of class.

You can register for the SAT here and for the ACT here.

Will there be homework?

Yes, students should plan to complete about 1-2 hours of homework in between each class session. You'll have the opportunity to do more!

Do students need to have their cameras/microphones on during the class?

Yes, the class sessions are set up as meetings. Students will be expected to answer questions and demonstrate their understanding of certain strategies and specific problems. We need them to have their cameras and microphones on in order to fully participate.

How will instruction in the sections be broken down?

Each 2.5 hour session will be divided into ~75 minutes of Math/Science and ~75 minutes of English/Reading. Students will have a brief break half way through the class session.

How do we know our instructor is "good"?

Compass is a company of tutors unlike any other. We have spent three decades creating the ideal environment for the best tutors to do their best work. Our competitive hiring process resembles the admission systems at the highly selective colleges from which our tutors hold degrees. Before they join our team, each tutor candidate must prove mastery of his or her subject. Significant tutoring and teaching experience is a minimum requirement but Compass tutors still must complete a lengthy, comprehensive training program before they meet with their first students.

Our classroom instructors are a specialized subset of our broader tutor pool. These are our veteran teachers who thrive in an online, interactive group format.

What kind of score improvement can we expect to see from this class?

The truth is that score improvements vary widely and depend on several factors:

- 1) What is the student's starting or baseline score?
- 2) What level of math has a student completed prior to the class?
- 3) Does the student attend all instructional sessions and complete all homework assignments and practice test sessions?

For a typical student starting in the 1000-1200 range on the SAT or 20-25 Composite on the ACT, we expect to see 100-200 points of SAT improvement or the equivalent of 3-6 points on the ACT scale.

What feedback will students and families receive after each class session?

After each session, class instructors will update the participants and their families with a short summary. We'll include what chapters in the course materials were covered and the current homework assignment.

Students (and interested parents) can also go back to review the recording of any particular session.

Full practice test reports with detailed score analyses are also an important component of charting our students' progress. Each student will have access to their score reports within three business days of the completion of a practice test session.

What are our options if we would like to try private instruction?

Students enrolled in a class can supplement their group instruction with customized 1-1 lessons as needed. They can also arrange for 1-1 instruction when preparing to take the SAT or ACT for a second time. Compass students often start with a class and then refine their approach with private lessons leading up to their next test attempt.

Can we attend in-person practice tests instead of online if they are in our area?

Class fees include access to three online proctored practice test sessions. If in-person practice test sessions are available in your area, students can join those sessions for a $50/test fee.

What happens if I miss a practice test?

Practice tests can be self-administered at any time. We also have a flexible schedule of online proctoring sessions for make-up options.

My student can't make the practice test times. Are there alternatives?

Yes, enrolled students are encouraged to self-administer the practice tests using our pre-recorded proctoring videos. Compass will grade your test within one business day and ensure that you and your instructor have access to the results.

Students also have access to two practice tests through our Online Testing Center. These digital practice tests are available on-demand and can be completed at a convenient time.

My student has accommodations. How does that work with the practice test sessions?

Students with accommodations will be able to complete their practice tests within extended time sessions. Compass provides proctored sessions for students 50% and 100% extended time. Please speak with your instructor or our testing coordinator to share your needs.

What if the scheduled times don't work for me?

We have multiple schedules available to consider. We regularly offer classes on the weekends and weekday evenings. Please take a look at the other schedules available.

If there's not a good fit currently available, please let us know what you have in mind by filling out this schedule request form.

Students can review recordings of missed class sessions throughout the duration of the program. Students can make-up missed practice test sessions by self-administering their exams.

If I can't make my assigned section one week, can I attend a different section?

Students are only able to attend the class section they are registered for. The best way to make up for a missed class is to watch the recording from that session. All class sessions are recorded and posted to the class Vimeo page within 1-2 business days of each class date.

We live on the East Coast and the practice test section is late for us, can we take an earlier session?

Yes, we have some practice test sessions that begin at 9am Eastern. If you're unable to make the time scheduled for your class, please contact our testing coordinator to secure a space in an earlier session.

What happens if I miss a class session?

We record each session. Students may review the recordings up until the target test date for the class. The best way to make up for a missed class is to watch the recording from that session. All class sessions are recorded and posted to the class Vimeo page within 1-2 business days of each class date.

Can we sign up for multiple classes leading up to the same test date?

This is possible but not recommended. The classes will be following the same syllabus so a second class would be a repeat of the first section. For students that need additional instruction, we advise signing up for 1-1 tutoring to supplement your group course, or joining a refresher course after your first course has been completed.

Our student will be taking the test multiple times. Can we register for a class going to each date?

Yes. Compass will also have abbreviated "refresher" class schedules available for students who don't need another full class prior to their next test attempt.

If the class for the schedule we want is full, will there be a waitlist?

Yes, please fill out this form or contact us at classes@compassprep.com. We'll alert you as space becomes available or another section is opened for enrollment.

Can we switch between SAT and ACT class sections?

Switching in the middle of a class isn't advisable, but if a student discovers that the "other" test format is preferable, we'll discuss how to shift the remainder of your class credits to a different schedule.

Students who switch pay a $50 materials fee, so we can ship you the appropriate coursebook and practice tests.

Is there a way to only take math classes? Or only verbal classes?

Our current classes cover both subjects in the same session and cannot be divided into individual subjects.

What is your refund policy?

We understand that sometimes things happen! We will issue you a complete refund up to 48 hours in advance of the first instructional session.

Do you offer financial aid for lower income families?

Yes, we have some limited scholarship funds available. Most often, requests for aid come from our partner institutions and/or teachers who nominate a deserving student. Our ability to offer aid is also tied to the enrollment numbers for a particular section. Please contact us at classes@compassprep.com for more information if you qualify for financial aid.

Do you have other questions we haven't addressed?
